Brethren;

In this unprecedented time please remember that while it is prudent that we socially distance ourselves we must not socially isolate the most vulnerable. We may not be able to visit face to face with everyone but that does not prevent us from picking up the phone and giving people who are shut in a call. The isolation that our senior brethren and widows may currently be experiencing can quickly turn to despair and desperation. We have no idea how long, nor how bad the current situation will get with the COVID-19 virus.

In masonry we say we are brothers well now more than ever we need to prove it. We need to check on those who are shut in frequently to let them know we are there for them. Please work with your lodges to ensure that no one is forgotten. It is in times of crisis that we are needed the most.
